Opportunity to partner in new Financial Services start-up

HJ Capital is a newly created venture to support the development of exciting new technology for financial services. Setup by two finance professionals with an entrepreneurial vein, we are currently looking to expand our team with a partner specialised in IT development, who is willing and able to work hard on a vision we share.

This new partner will join us in a new finance technology start-up, to develop an idea we believe will revolutionise personal finance and investment. We have strong finance backgrounds with some experience in IT development and are looking for someone who can work with us to make this concept reality. We will not give any details about the idea at this point, but encourage any interested applicants with the below profile to send their applications to partners@hjcapital.co.uk.

 What we are looking for:

- A student studying Computing or a directly related subject
- Practical experience in programming, best through extra-curricular activities
- Programming languages required: HTML 5, CSS3, PHP, mysql
- Highly motivated and ambitious
- Innovative and creative coder, eager to understand the problem rather than simply fixing it
- Skills in Design software, such as Photoshop are a plus
- Mathematical or Financial skills are a plus

To apply, send us:

- Your CV
- A paragraph answering the following question:
  What makes a great entrepreneur?
  Please bear in mind that we are not looking for an academic answer, we want to understand your very personal view on this matter. Please limit your answer to 250 words.

We will consider applicants on a rolling basis, there is no particular deadline, but only one space to fill.

We will give the successful candidate shares in the new company created.

Looking forward to your applications,

HJ Capital Team
